The Central Government is implementing a scheme "Promotion of National Integration" which aims at promoting a spirit of national integration among the youth of the country through inter-state visits, National Integration camps and organisation of seminars and conferences on various themes of National importance. Such visits by young persons from one part of the country to the other, enable them to familiarise themselves with the environment, family life and social customs of people living in different parts of the country as also to comprehend and appreciate the common historical and cultural heritage of the country.

National Integration camps of students and non-student rural youth are organised to afford opportunities to youth to learn of inter-regional customs and cultural traditions. At these camps, discussions are organised with the idea of emphasising commonality and reducing mutual suspicions, tensions and hostilities between different religious groups. The participants are also made aware of the dangers of social evils and divisive forces which they must fight. Folk songs, dances, community singing, exhibitions, community service and celebration of festivals of different regions are some of the other features of the National Integration camps.
